Neighborhood Networks Week June 25–30, 2007

On the Internet. In the classroom. At the workplace. Throughout the community. Opportunities are everywhere—but connecting to them can be a challenge.

Neighborhood Networks Week 2007 showcases the critical role Neighborhood Networks centers play in connecting residents to opportunities. From providing job-readiness training to delivering technology access, Neighborhood Networks centers are proving that residents' biggest opportunity might be right next door.

Join Neighborhood Networks centers across the country for this weeklong celebration that highlights how Neighborhood Networks centers are connecting residents to opportunities. For more information and to register your center's event, visit the Neighborhood Networks Web site www.NeighborhoodNetworks.org or call the Information Center toll-free at (888) 312-2743 for regular updates. The hearing impaired may access the number via TTY by calling the Federal Information Relay Service at (800) 877-8339.
