Comments on PHA Plans

December 22, 1999

Five-Year Plan:

No comments at this time.

One-Year Plan:

Overall the plan is sound.

When considering accessibility for the Income \leq 30%AMI, circumstances such as funding for heating and electricity should be taken into account when assisting tenants in looking for an apartment or house.

People of this income bracket are especially sensitive to the extra cost of running a fan in summer or putting plastic coverings on the windows for winter. It would be helpful to have the last years worth of approximate monthly costs for heating and cooling on a rental unit available at the [PHA] office as part of the landlord referral system.

PHA Response: The Housing Authority reviews utilities annually to determine whether adjustments to the utility schedule are necessary part of the consideration is the impact upon the payment standard and gross rent with the 40% TTP limitation on new housing assistance payment contracts.

I strongly approve of the decision not to discriminate against families who are not employed.

PHA Response: Presently the Housing Authority does not employ admission preferences aimed at families who are working.

In addition, the list of Landlord referrals needs to be revised.

PHA Response: From time to time the Housing Authority updates the Landlord Referral List.
