Deconcentration Policy

(Extract from Central Texas Housing Consortium Occupancy Policy)

It is the Central Texas Housing Consortium's policy to provide for deconcentration of poverty and encourage income mixing by bringing higher income families into lower income developments and lower income families into higher income development. Toward this end, we will skip families on the waiting list to reach other families with a lower or higher income. We will accomplish this in a uniform and non-discriminating manner.

The Consortium will affirmatively market our housing to all eligible income groups. Lower income residents will not be steered toward lower income developments and higher income people will not be steered toward higher income developments.

Prior to the beginning of each fiscal year, we will analyze the income levels of families in each of our developments and the income levels of the families on the waiting list. Based on this analysis, we will determine the level of marketing strategies and deconcentration incentives to implement.

Survey scores indicated that the Housing Authority scored higher than the national average in three of six categories. Management courteousness and professionalism was 1.1% higher than the national average. The two areas that need the most attention are provision of information about maintenance and repair and management responsiveness to questions and concerns. We are not satisfied with the percentages in these areas and will take the following steps to improve communications with residents:

- Flyers pertaining to specific maintenance or repair issues will be used to keep residents informed prior to start of the repair work, if possible, on a regular basis.
- Housing Authority staff will attend Resident Advisory Board meetings and Resident Association meetings to give those present an opportunity to ask questions.
- We will stress the importance of responding to phone calls and written correspondence in a timely fashion.
- Newsletters that will include articles to inform residents about projects, lease terms, and policies are distributed bi-monthly.
