VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMAN ACT

PUBLIC LAW 109-162 (VAWA)

Resolution: 186

March 18, 2009

In January 2006, President George W. Bush signed into law the Violence Against Women Act. Portions of this law create new protection rights for victims of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking, who are residents in Public Housing or who are assisted with Section 8 Housing Choice Voucher rental assistance. The intention of the Violence Against Woman Act is to protect women who are victims of abuse or are threatened with abuse from being evicted from HUD assisted housing bases solely on this reason. Even though the name of the law (VAWA) implies the protection of women only, it also applies to children and male victims as well.

The law does not permit an eviction of a tenant who is the victim of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault or stalking due to acts of the abuser or perpetrator such as disturbing the neighbors or damages to the unit or property.

The Woodville Housing Authority will require female or male residents who are victims of domestic violence to certify to these incidents of abuse. The WHA will keep confidential certified information provided by the victim to the extent of what the law permits.

Woodville Housing Authority does reserve the right to terminate the lease of the victim if there is an actual and immediate threat of harm to others OR for other lease violations not bases on domestic abuse.

If you have any questions regarding your rights as an actual threatened victim of domestic violence, please contact your Executive Director for more information on your rights under the Violence Against Women Act.
