Affected Programs

This guidance will affect HUD's Single Family Housing Policy Handbook 4000.1 (Handbook 4000.1), section II.A.8.d.v(B)(1) Maximum Mortgage Amount–Standard. This policy does not apply to mortgages insured under Section 247 (Single Family Mortgage Insurance on Hawaiian Homelands).

Background

FHA last adjusted the maximum LTV on cash-out refinances from 95 percent to 85 percent in 2009 in response to the weakening housing market. Prior to FHA's reduction of LTV requirements and similar changes by other market participants during the market downturn, the share of cash-out refinances had rapidly increased as housing prices increased through the mid-2000s. Subsequent studies have shown that a significant increase in foreclosures may have been the result of a high number of cash-out refinances completed prior to the collapse of the housing market. As the housing market has improved, the market has continued to monitor the risk associated with cash-out refinances and recently one of the Government Sponsored Enterprises has instituted changes to address this credit risk. FHA's data is again showing that an increasing amount of cash-out refinance transactions are occurring. Notably, the total number of FHA endorsements with cash-out refinance mortgages has increased 250.47 percent - from 43,052 in FY 2013, which had the lowest share of cash-out refinances - to 150,883 in FY 2018. Consequently, FHA has concluded that this ML would be a prudent measure in order to strengthen the equity position of cash-out refinances and reduce loss severities in the event of default, stay ahead of any potential future shift in the housing market and better support FHA's mission of providing access to sustainable homeownership that builds equity.

Summary of Changes

The Maximum Mortgage Amount section of Handbook 4000.1 is amended to reduce the current Maximum LTV and CLTV percentages from 85 to 80 percent of the Adjusted Value on cash-out refinance mortgages. This policy change seeks to mitigate risks to the FHA Insurance Fund associated with increasing levels of insured loan balances on cash-out refinance mortgages. This new requirement is a prudent safeguard that permits FHA to ensure it stays ahead of any shift in housing stability.
