To be eligible to become a certified UPCS inspector you must submit to and pass a Personal Identity Verification (PIV) process that involves a thorough criminal background investigation. HUD’s Personnel Security Division (PSD) will determine your suitability to conduct property inspections as a UPCS inspector. PSD may require additional documents if needed to further assess the nature or seriousness of a past offense(s). You will be permitted to begin Phase I of the UPCS inspection training while PSD conducts the PIV process. After the PIV process is complete, HUD will notify you in writing whether you may proceed with Phase II of training. If PSD determines you are not eligible to become certified as a UPCS inspector, you may not continue with training and you may not reapply to the program.

After certification, you will be required periodically to submit to and pass the PIV process again.
