Greetings from the Administrator

Greetings!

It should come as no surprise that the Office of Native American Programs [ONAP] which oversees the grant process of granting and reviewing housing assistance directly to Tribes through its major block grant programs known as the Indian Housing Block Grant or [IHBG] program, regularly fields complaints from individuals. Some of the individuals call, write or email to complain that their Tribe or TDHE has failed to assist them as they feel they should have been assisted. Whether this comes from a Tribal member residing in a unit, or an eligible applicant trying to gain services from an IHBG funded Tribal Housing Department or TDHE, we at ONAP must always take these complaints seriously. The EWONAP office deals with these complaints by first listening to the complainant and logging in the complaint, trying as best we can to frame the issue into an understandable way. This sometimes is a problem as some complainants are only marginally coherent. While most (Continued on page 2) complaints are forthright and come from an identifiable individual, some are anonymous. For the individual who complains, we take down their name and contact information, whether via email, phone or snail mail, to insure we can report back to them what we have been able to accomplish, if anything, towards resolving their complaint. The Complaint is then assigned to an individual Grants Management Specialist dealing with the underlying tribe/TDHE or to the corresponding Grants Evaluation Specialist depending on the issue. It can be frustrating dealing with complaints that are anonymous or incoherent as we have no one to get back to in the case of anonymous complaints or can’t figure out how to assist those who are incoherent. This is different than someone who requests confidentiality, which is also difficult to resolve, as we may not be able to address the underlying issue without revealing who the complainant is.

Once the basic information about a complaint is made clear either by having the assigned ONAP employee calling the complainant back or forwarding the appropriate initial contact material, the employee assigned to the complaint attempts to resolve the complaint by contacting the Grantee who is being complained about. This can be over an eviction, alleged unsanitary or unsafe conditions, improper selection or procurement process, or any one of a host of other issues. As with many situations, ONAP is given only one side to a story, that of the complainant and not the full story, so no assumptions are made that the complainant claim is valid without checking first with the grantee.

NAHASDA sets up a cooperative relationship between ONAP as the representative of the U.S. Government and the Grantee, which is either the Tribe itself or an organization created by the Tribe to carry out its housing responsibilities, i.e., TDHE. ONAP representatives are aware that this is a government-to-government relationship and that its responsibility is to make sure that the grant money given to the Grantee is used for the purposes set forth in the Grant Agreement, which include the NAHASDA regulations at 24 CFR Section 1000 et. Seq. and the Uniform Administrative Requirements for Federal Awards at 2 CFR Section 200 et. Seq., many of which require that the Grantee have and adhere to its own policies and procedures.

One of the principal ways of ONAP resolving a complaint is to check first with the Grantee. Grantees should not be alarmed by a call about a complaint. Most of the time it is merely a routine call with a quick resolution. Not surprisingly, some complaints don’t pan out and merely speaking to the Grantee is sufficient for ONAP to assess that all the proper regulations were followed, and the Grantee acted appropriately. ONAP then communicates this back to the complainant and informs them of their options. In some other cases the problem boils down to a lack of effective communication, whereby either the complainant didn’t let the Grantee know what the real issue was, or the Grantee failed to inform the complainant of a resolution. ONAP’s role in such situations is to facilitate communication between the two.

With serious allegations of misconduct, ONAP informs the complainant of the option of informing the Office of Inspector General [OIG] who acts outside of the ONAP chain of command. However, the OIG is most concerned with claims of fraud, abuse and mismanagement and is not a place to go simply because someone was denied services. For the upper Midwest the HUD Regional OIG number is (312) 353-7832, which covers the Tribal Grantees in IA, WI, MN, MI and IN. The EWONAP office also covers the entire east coast so complaints for Tribes in New England go to the OIG in Boston, for New York, they go to the OIG in New York City for most tribes in the Southeast they go to the OIG office in Atlanta at (404) 331-3369. See the link for your local office: https://www.hudoig.gov/about/where-were-located.

In the rare cases where a tribe/TDHE has made a mistake, error or failed to conform to NAHASDA regulations or their own written procedures, ONAP informs them that they need to follow their own procedures and the appropriate regulations to achieve fairness. This usually works because both ONAP and the Grantee are in the business of providing safe, decent and affordable housing and following the rules designed to achieve that goal resolves nearly all issues. It has been this Office’s experience that Grantees usually are able to work out a solution acceptable to the Grantee and the complainant. In the end, not all complaints can be resolved because Tribes govern themselves and have their own systems of due process. Sometimes the only resolution can be achieved through Tribal court or the Tribal council and not ONAP intervention. ONAP respects those processes and sometimes refers complainants back to their own Tribal Housing Board, Tribal Council or Tribal Court especially in contested matters where the complainant and Grantee are in better possession of the disputed facts. It is our hope at EWONAP that this explanation takes some of the mystery out of the role ONAP plays in resolving routine housing complaints about Grantees.

Best Wishes,

Mark Butterfield, Administrator

SITE VISIT TO:
FOREST COUNTY POTAWATOMI, CRANDON, WISCONSIN
APRIL 8 – 12, 2019

The Forest County Potawatomi (FCP) have lived in Forest County, Wisconsin, since the late 1800s. Around 1880, groups settled in areas near Blackwell and Wabeno and have lived in that area since, as well as in the Carter and Crandon (or Stone Lake) areas. Today, life on the reservation is very different than it was for the elders. They have done much for the younger generation, and it is because of the elders that the younger generations are who they are today. By pursuing a diverse set of business models, the Forest County Potawatomi of today are the largest employer in Forest County. With revenues from various tribal enterprises, the Potawatomi have invested in the health, wellness, education, environment and future of its people. The FCP have also worked hard to preserve its culture and honor its past. The Cultural Center, Library and Museum provide an important link to the past and serves to facilitate important ceremonies.

Services Offered to the Community:
- Language and cultural class instruction
- Historical photograph reproduction and repair
- Native American DVD rental and gift shop sales
- 4000 library books on the history and culture of the Great Lakes Indians
- Tribal newspapers of Wisconsin tribes and Potawatomi bands

Research Services Offered:
Archived state and local records, family charting, maps, etc.

The Forest County Potawatomi Library is a tribally-owned and operated public library. Their collection focuses exclusively on Native Studies, with an emphasis on the Potawatomi Nation and the tribes of the Great Lakes region. They also have a non-circulating research library which consists of reference materials and a rare book collection.

- One time loan guarantee fee (1.5%)
- May utilize up to 15% of loan funds for site infrastructure costs
- Low down payment
- No household income restrictions
- Buy, Rehab, Refi or Build
- Finance up to 20 units at a time.
