It is winter and the holiday season. For many Tribes it was a time to slow down and tell stories during the long winter months. For those of us in housing it is an ideal time to use the dark, slower outdoor days to be planning for the coming year. This can be divided into short-term planning for the coming building and rehabilitation season and for long-term planning for an overall master plan of where the Tribe/TDHE want to be in the long term. It is a time to assess needs through surveys and community meetings. These allow housing professionals to tap into community needs and visions, which in turn leads to support for the programs that emerge from the planning process.

It is a time to ask questions and later to assemble the answers into a coherent narrative which should allow you to sit down and visualize solutions. For instance, many communities are experiencing an opioid or diabetes crisis. How big is it? What age groups seem to be most susceptible? Why do these individuals need to escape their situation in drug induced haze? Why are we not as healthy as our ancestors? Is it lack of jobs? Lack of ways to connect to others in their community leading them to despair? Can the housing community provide ways for people to connect so they don’t feel so alone or depressed? What makes them smile, gets them out of their shell? Then strategize on how to use the resources NAHASDA gives you to address the problem.

Do you have a Community Building where people can meet? If so, what sort of programming is missing? Is there someone there to open the building? Are there craft clubs or experienced elders willing to share a skill that your people are known for? Birchbark crafts, beading, moccasin making, regalia making, story-telling, porcupine quill designs, black ash basketry, making lacrosse sticks, drumming, singing, making wooden spoons. Or the activity could be more modern like interactive gaming night, movie night, computer aided design, poetry slams, language classes, hand drumming contests, moccasin game night, hand games, card games such as spades, bridge, pounce, hearts, etc. The point being that the more the community interacts the stronger it is, because you share laughter, jokes, and enjoy each other’s company.

Other things that can be done are both indoor and outdoor exercise facilities. Including walking trails in and around your community, bike racks to both reduce clutter around multi-unit buildings and encourage people to bike more. Tribes in this region have built ball and soccer fields, skate parks, walking trails, exercise rooms in community buildings, basketball courts and computer rooms for community members to log onto the internet in more remote locations. Other tribes’ programs include bingo nights, soup lunches for elders combining NAHASDA building dollars with Older Americans Act feeding sites. When visiting the Stockbridge-Munsee recently completed community building it had programing for elders most days of the week.

On the same trip I visited the newly completed Siga Funmaker Center in the Ho-Chunk community at Wittenberg Wisconsin, aka Pacinąk, which is having an ICDBG-funded Head start center added onto it. This will make the building a true center so that kids, youth and elders will all be connected in the Community. None of these things would have come to pass without good advanced planning; surveying the community for their needs and wants. Moreover, this is a multi-year process, so that the community gains not just houses for low-income tribal members but also the infrastructure from BIA Roads to utilities, to parks to community centers, wells, septic and all that goes with it, gradually fill in space to make a community more vibrant and vital.

This will not solve the opioid crisis but given the alternatives, it will provide less room for despair, boredom and lack of opportunity that drives that crisis.

Wishing you all a great and happy Christmas and Holiday season!

EWONAP WEBINAR SERIES

Demystifying the Performance Monitoring Review (December 7, 2017, 2:00 PM—3:30 PM, EST): EWONAP will partner with the Native Learning Center to offer this training session.

Description: The purpose of ONAP’s on-site and remote performance monitoring review is to: 1) Fulfill the public trust responsibilities by ensuring that HUD grants are implemented in a timely manner and in compliance with applicable requirements; (2) Identify trends that indicate superior, satisfactory, or deficient performance; (3) Develop and implement action to reinforce, improve, correct or supplement recipient performance as appropriate; and (4) Identify and validate technical assistance needs in accordance with the NAHASDA as well as other applicable regulations and statutes.

Monitoring is an ongoing process that assesses the quality of a program participant’s performance over a period of time. Monitoring provides information about program participants that is critical for making informed judgments about program effectiveness and management efficiency. It also helps in identifying instances of fraud, waste and abuse. A performance monitoring review consists of a thorough review of all information available in both the Area ONAP’s and Tribe or TDHE’s files and databases concerning a grant recipient’s use of HUD funds. Participants in this webinar will learn how on-site and remote monitoring reviews are conducted at the grant recipients’ organizations and housing authorities or TDHEs. This is a 90-minute webinar session. Click Here to register.

Tribes are invited to join ITEP’s VW Settlement Technical Assistance Program’s webinar to learn how Tribes can access the $55 million settlement from Clean Air Act violations by the automaker Volkswagen. For the next 6-10 years, Tribes will be able to sign up as settlement beneficiaries and submit environmental mitigation plans to replace or repower a selected list of diesel vehicles. Tribe have until January 2, 2018 to submit a funding request for the first round of funding and subsequent years have a deadline of September 1st of each year until 2023. If any of the $55 million remains after 2023, funds will remain available to Tribes until the funds are exhausted.

USDA DISASTER RESOURCE CENTER AND Grant/Loan PROGRAMS

US Dept of Agriculture (USDA) stands ready to partner with tribes in preparing, recovering, and building long-term resilience to natural disasters. The USDA Disaster Resource Center, is available to help Indian Country identify resources and technical assistance opportunities relevant to these events and emergencies.

FREE DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE FOR ENERGY PLANNING

The U.S. Dept. of Energy Office of Indian Energy Policy & Programs offers free, on request technical assistance to Indian tribes and Alaska Native villages. Tribes can apply annually to receive technical assistance with energy planning; housing, building energy efficiency, and resilience; project development; village power; and policy and regulation. The goal of the technical assistance is to address a specific challenge or fulfill a need that is essential to a current project’s successful implementation. The intended result of this technical assistance is a tangible product or specific deliverable designed to help move a project forward. For more info: https://energy.gov/indianenergy/technical-assistance/request-technical-assistance.

NEW LINK TO THE TRIBAL DIRECTORY ACCESS TOOL (TDAT)

The tool was developed by the Office of Environment & Energy (OEE) to help users identify tribes that may have an interest in the location of a HUD-assisted project, and provide tribal contact information to assist users with initiating Section 106 consultation under the National Historic Preservation Act (54 U.S.C. § 300101 et seq.).

Two key aspects of TDAT are its ability to:

- Link tribes' geographic areas of current and ancestral interest down to the county level, and
- Perform a variety of queries related to tribes.

WHAT IS "ONE HEALTH"?

"One Health" is a term that refers to the relationships between the health of animals, humans, and the environment. Did you know that OVER HALF of all infections in humans are spread by animals? One Health is an increasingly important idea discussed in public health. Since indigenous people often live in close contact with nature, One Health topics may be of special concern but may also already be well understood by many American Indian/Alaska Native (AI/AN) people according to traditional beliefs about health. The image below shows how cows contaminated with bacteria E. coli can cause people to get sick or die from eating salad. Click Here to read the research.

Training on Accessing Capital Resources for Rural Single Family Homes
December 8th, 2017 ~ 2:00 – 3:00 p.m. Eastern
REGISTER HERE

You are invited to join Enterprise Community Partner’s Rural and Native American Initiative for a webinar on capital resources for Rural single family home development. This webinar will provide an overview of the single-family housing landscape and what single family housing programs are available. The webinar will include information on the HUD Section 184 Program, USDA 502 Direct and Guaranteed Loans, VA Direct Loans and more. Join us as we provide guidance on how to access these available financing programs.

For many organizations operating in rural areas, they are the only organization serving the community’s affordable housing needs. Without their continued efforts in the community, there would not be any affordable housing or other community development activities. Organizations in these communities need guidance on how to access available financing programs and capacity building for leveraging these sources (LIHTC, HOME, AHP, Trust Funds) for creating new housing.

The webinar will be led by Russell Kaney, the Director for the National Rural & Native American Initiative. Russell leads Enterprise’s national efforts on providing direct assistance to CDCs, CHDOs, Tribes and Tribally Designated Housing Entities. The capacity building and technical assistance provided by Enterprise helps these organizations develop their towns, build their communities and weaves together the social fabric of the rural landscape into vibrant places to work, live and play. Registration is at no cost but is required. Register in advance Here.

- One time loan guarantee fee (1.5%)
- May utilize up to 15% of loan funds for site infrastructure costs
- Low down payment
- No household income restrictions
- Buy, Rehab, Refi or Build
- Finance up to 20 units at a time.
