NEWS AND UPDATES

FHA Single Family Housing Operations and Systems Availability During Government Shutdown

As a result of the Federal Government shutdown due to a lapse in appropriations, until further notice the Federal Housing Administration's (FHA) Office of Single Family Housing and its mortgage insurance program will be operating with limited services. As was the case in previous shutdowns, under a lapse in funding, FHA's actions and decisions about which operations continue, or not, are governed by the Constitution, statutory provisions, court opinions, and Department of Justice (DOJ) Opinions, which provide the legal framework for how funding gaps and shutdowns have occurred in recent decades.

While some services will continue to be operational, please note that across the board, the services that remain available during the shutdown will have significant impacts to customer service and/or limited functionality.

Please see the information below for an overview of the business impacts specific to the Office of Single Family Housing and its Single Family mortgagees, Title I lenders, and other stakeholders in FHA single family transactions. Full descriptions and details can be found in the Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD) Contingency Plan for Possible Lapse in Appropriations document posted on HUD.gov.

The FHA Resource Center's online FAQ site has been updated to include additional information about operations and systems availability during the shutdown (keyword "shutdown").
