Chapter 1. General Provisions

1-1. Purpose.

The purpose of this handbook is to govern the administration of the Department's Upward Mobility Program. Upward Mobility is an important tool for succession planning in helping assure that appropriate talent exists to carry out HUD's mission into the future. Upward Mobility provides specific career development opportunities for employees in lower grade levels who are in positions or occupational series which do not enable them to achieve their full work potential. (See Chapter 3 for additional requirements.) Upward Mobility is consistent with the merit principles for selection and placement and supports efforts to achieve the Department's Affirmative Action objectives.

1-2. Policy and Objectives

It is the policy of HUD to actively engage in efforts to develop general Upward Mobility Programs for Department-wide application. In conformance with this policy, the specific objectives of the Upward Mobility Training Program are:

To achieve more effective utilization of the capabilities of employees;

To provide upward and lateral career movement for employees in lower grade levels whose current position or occupational series does not provide for further advancement;

To provide employees with assistance to identify their career goals, objectives, or interests;

To make available to employees training and educational opportunities which enhance their qualifications and permit progress into other career fields;

To motivate employees toward high achievement and create an environment which promotes high morale;

To expand career training opportunities for employees appointed under special entry level programs such as Schedule A Employment for severely physically disabled individuals or Veterans Readjustment Appointment authority; and
To adhere to recognized merit principles in all evaluations and selections of candidates, and provide equal opportunity to all employees.

Advising managers, supervisors, and selectees of the length of training and experience required to satisfy OPM qualification standards for the target position;

Providing counseling services to trainees, managers and supervisors; and Proper coding for personnel actions to ensure accurate affirmative employment reporting.

First-line Managers/Supervisors.

Each first-line manager and/or supervisor is responsible for:

Becoming knowledgeable of the Upward Mobility Program, and the opportunities it provides;

Making assessments of staffing needs, and identifying suitable trainee and target positions;

Serving as a key participant in the development of Individual Training and Development Plans;

Evaluating employees in training and participating in determinations regarding successful completion of program requirements; and Conducting job analysis of positions to be filled and developing crediting plans in consultation with the personnel representative.

Participating Employees.

Participating employees are responsible for:

Participating in the development of Individual Training and Development Plans and in career counseling activities;

Periodic self-evaluations of performance and reviewing Supervisory evaluation of training performance; and Fulfilling all training, educational, and work requirements of the Individual Training and Development Plan.

1-5. Definitions.

Upward Mobility - a personnel management program through which Federal agencies may provide specific career development opportunities for employees in lower grade levels (at or below GS-9 or equivalent) who are in positions or occupational series which do not enable them to achieve their full work potential.

Upward Mobility Program Plan - outlines the development and implementation of specific career advancement opportunities for employees in lower grade levels through accelerated training and development plans. The program plan is responsive both to the management's staffing needs and affirmative employment responsibilities.

Trainee Position - a developmental position in which the trainee is engaged in full-time work during the training period. The level of responsibility, as determined during the position's classification process, is lesser than the target position and the supervision required is greater. The title of the trainee position will generally be the same as the target position, except for the designation "trainee" at the end of the position title.

Target Position - the position to which the trainee is reassigned or promoted upon successful completion of the requirements of the Upward Mobility Program and the Individual Training and Development Plan. Depending upon the needs of the organization where the position is located, the target position may be at the same grade as the trainee position or at a higher grade. The target position should be identified during the classification process and stated on the vacancy announcement for the trainee position.

e. Full Performance Level - the journey grade level in a specific career ladder. It is determined during the classification of the target position and is shown on the Position Vacancy Announcement and in the remarks section of Notification of Personnel Action (SF-50). Promotions to the full performance level are called "Career Promotions" and can be made without competition when, at an earlier stage, an employee was selected under competitive procedures for an assignment intended to prepare the employee for a higher grade position.

Individual Training and Development Plan - a written time-phased developmental plan which establishes the required training and developmental assignments needed by a specific trainee to acquire the knowledge, skills, and abilities essential in meeting the qualification requirements for the targeted position.
