| 1-1 Administrative Fees | What are the administrative fees that the PHA will receive under the DHAP? | PHAs earn up to four different administrative fees under the DHAP.
• Pre-Transitional Activities Fee. This fee only applies if the PHA has been referred families that are part of the initial group making the transition to DHAP with rent subsidy payments expected to begin November 1, 2007. The PHA will receive a fee to cover pre-transitional case services provided to these families during the months of September and October 2007.
• Administrative Services Fee. The PHA will receive a lump sum, up-front fee to cover the costs associated with administering the rental assistance portion of the DHAP. The initial administrative services fee provided to the PHA after the execution of the Grant Agreement is based on the number of families first referred to the PHA for DHAP assistance. This administrative services fee will be further supplemented as additional families are referred to the PHA for DHAP assistance.
• One-time Placement Fee. The PHA earns this one-time fee when a family is initially placed under a Disaster Rent Subsidy (DRS) Contract. This fee is paid only for the family’s initial lease-up under DHAP and does not apply to any subsequent leasing of a unit by the family.
• Case Management Services Fee. The PHA will also receive funding for the on-going case management services that must be provided to DHAP participants over the duration of the program. |

| 1-4                   | Administrative Services Fee
Is the administrative services fee for the PHA based on the number of actual families leased under DHAP? | No. The administrative services fee is a formula driven fee. It is calculated in accordance with the parameters and assumptions discussed in detail below. PHAs will receive the entire administrative services fee for the families initially referred to the PHA at the beginning of DHAP in one single lump-sum payment.

The administrative services fee that the PHA receives at the beginning of DHAP is based on 15 percent of the estimated initial DHAP rent subsidy payment. This amount is multiplied by 16 months (the maximum term that the family could receive DHAP assistance) and then multiplied by the number of families initially referred to the PHA. In recognition that not every family initially referred to the PHA will lease under DHAP or remain on the DHAP for the full 16 months, the initial administrative services fee calculation assumes a monthly 2 percent attrition rate in the number of families assisted over the last 15 months.

Note that the PHA administrative services fee is not impacted by the number of referred families that are actually placed under lease in the program. Furthermore, the fact that the number of families that leave the PHA’s program before the expiration of the DHAP may differ from the assumed universal 2 percent monthly attrition rate does not affect the amount of the PHA’s administrative services fee.

For example, assume a PHA was initially referred five families for the DHAP. This PHA provides a local preference for its regular voucher program for families that were displaced by natural disasters. If all five families chose to immediately apply for voucher assistance,

<td>For the first 4 months that regular case management services are provided (November 2007 – February 2008), the case management services fee shall be calculated as follows: $92 \times \text{number of families initially referred to the PHA} \times 4 \text{ months}$ For the following three month period (March 2008 – May 2008) and each three month period thereafter, the case management services fee is based on the number of families under DHAP lease as reported by the PHA in the Disaster Information System (DIS). The case management services fee shall equal $92$ multiplied by the number of families under DHAP lease multiplied by three months. HUD uses the family data recorded in DIS as of the middle of the month preceding the three month funding period to calculate the case management services fee.</td>

<td>Legal Documents 1-27</td>
<td>Does the lease addendum reset the term of the lease?</td>
<td>No. In the case where a family is already under lease and wishes to remain in-place to receive DHAP assistance, the owner and the family may remain under the existing lease. The family and the owner may also choose to enter into a new lease that commences at the same time as the effective date of the DRSC and the lease addendum.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Legal Documents 1-28</td>
<td>May the term of the lease and the term of the DRSC be different?</td>
<td>Yes. The term of the lease is dependent upon state and local practices. The term of the DRSC cannot extend beyond March 1, 2009. The DRSC may be terminated by the PHA prior to that date for violations of the contract, termination of the family from the DHAP, or where the subsidy payment equals zero.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Legal Documents 1-29</td>
<td>What is the initial lease term under DHAP?</td>
<td>There is no initial term of the lease under DHAP.</td>

<tr>
<td>Legal Documents 1-30</td>
<td>If a family leases in place under DHAP, but the owner and family sign a new lease at the commencement of DHAP assistance, will the rent subsidy that the owner receives under DHAP be the same as what the owner was receiving through CLC?</td>
<td>Yes. The monthly rent subsidy for the unit would equal the lesser of the monthly rent specified in the lease, or the greater of the applicable FMR published for the area where the unit is located, the applicable payment standard for the PHA’s HCV program or the amount of monthly assistance the family received under the FEMA rental assistance program for the unit prior to the transition to DHAP.</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Program Information</td>
<td>Where can eligible families and PHAs get additional information about the transition to the DHAP?</td>
<td>HUD has established a referral call center with a toll-free number for eligible families and PHAs seeking additional information about the transition to DHAP. FEMA families currently receiving rent assistance who have been notified by FEMA that they will be transitioned to the DHAP may contact the referral call center at 1-866-373-9509. <tr>
<td>Rent Reasonableness</td>
<td>For a family transitioning in-place, if the owner wants to offer a new lease at the commencement of DHAP assistance, will these units be subject to rent reasonableness?</td>
<td>No. Rent reasonableness does not apply in this case. The family may choose to continue to reside in the unit and pay the difference between the subsidy amount and any increase in the lease rent.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rent Reasonableness</td>
<td>After the PHA and owner have executed the DRSC for a family receiving assistance in-place, if the owner wishes to increase the rent, would rent reasonableness apply?</td>
<td>Yes. Rent reasonableness does apply in this case because the owner is increasing the rent after execution of the DRSC.</td>
