One size does not fit all in diverse communities.

NewHolly neighbors use various strategies
to build their social capital.

Small
Medium
Large
X-Large

NewHolly artists use pictures to explain their organizing style.

Small Steps

Neighbors can build social capital chatting while they wait for the bus or hang out at the park with their children.

Medium Steps

Neighbors form great friendships at their block parties!

Medium Steps

Neighbors identify issues and solutions and recruit volunteers for community work parties.

Medium Steps

Neighbors also work together and have fun while they create community art.

Large Steps

Neighbors learn to communicate and solve problems by forming on-going committees and clubs.

Large Steps

Neighbors have fun and learn about each other at cultural events and celebrations

Extra-Large Steps

Volunteers and staff organize regular NewHolly Neighborhood Nights where neighbors discuss hot topics, action items, and vote on their community funds and representatives.

Extra-Large Steps

Neighbors are also proud of holding annual community celebrations and events.

Multi-Community Steps

Neighbors are now attending city-wide leadership trainings & joining regional activist groups.
