GREETINGS FROM THE ADMINISTRATOR

The Department of Housing and Urban Development is more than about housing. It is also about Communities. While a traditional emphasis of HUD is building housing in Indian Country, that is only part of HUD’s mission. Communities are more than just houses. To make a community there must be something that ties people together greater than simply proximity. Communities are a combination of proximity and something that binds people together such as a shared culture, language, or institution such as a school, library, recreational facility, job site, religion, etc. It is the job of Tribal leaders to examine the needs of their communities and to supply those unmet needs.

This is why NAHASDA allows flexibility in funding activities. Each community is unique and has differing needs. Northern communities from Maine to Minnesota may need Community Buildings due to severe climate challenges in the winter which allow community members to gather for traditional or social activities. Such buildings can house community parties, meals for elders, libraries, internet access, recreational activities, wakes, educational lectures, language classes and the like. Other communities may need facilities to promote health and well-being such as walking trails, snowmobile or ski trails, basketball courts, baseball diamonds or LaCrosse or soccer fields, par course circuits, health clinics, etc. Yet other tribes might see the need for energy sovereignty as being vitally important and install solar hot water heaters, solar panels, wind turbines, heat pumps and more efficient insulation in order to reduce or eliminate bills to outside energy companies. Does your community have a plan so that more money is left in the pocket of your community members? Can you hire tribal members via force account to keep NAHASDA grant money in the community while building valuable job skills?

What binds your community together? Where do people meet and exchange conversation and discuss matters? Do you have a post office within the tribal community? Is there a local coffee shop, eatery or store that provides that forum? Do you have your own school or do tribal children attend public schools outside of the local community? What sort of skills will the next generation need to survive and does your community foster or supply those skills as they did in the distant past? How can that be taught? How can we keep tribal youth and our membership from turning to drugs, gangs or other destructive behaviors? These are questions that need to be asked with community input to help build a self-sufficient strong community proud of its members and its heritage.

I urge you to start asking these questions and then see if HUD can assist in providing the resources to address your concerns. Having a vision of what type of community you want is the first step in getting there. As the saying goes, Rome wasn’t built in a day. It was built over time. Sometimes by its rulers who build monuments and aqueducts to bring clean water to the city and to remove sewage, and sometimes by its citizens who build their own homes.

Mark Butterfield, Administrator
TITLE VI LOAN GUARANTEE TRAINING

HUD’s Eastern Woodlands Office of Native American Programs and the National American Indian Housing Council recently offered tribes a two-day training on the Title VI Loan Guarantee Program. This training is critical because in these uncertain times of funding, project planning is vital and must include financing components that use a variety of funding sources. Within the 1996 Native American Housing Assistance and Self-Determination Act (NAHASDA) is the “hidden gem” of leveraging the Indian Housing Block Grant (IHBG). The Title VI Loan Guarantee Program can multiply the funds available under the Indian Housing Block Grant (IHBG). Participant received information on how to multiply up to five times the need portion of their IHBG allocations and how to mix the funds with other resources. Participants also gained the knowledge and confidence necessary to make informed decisions about the feasibility of including Title VI and other funding options as part of their tribe’s future housing development plans.

GRANT EVALUATION WEBINAR SERIES

EWONAP staff members will participate in an upcoming Webinar Series hosted through the Native Learning Center. Will Dawson, Director of Grants Evaluation and David Thomas, Lead Grants Evaluation Specialist will lead the following discussions:

Demystifying the Self-Monitoring Process, October 19, 2017 @2:00 PM to 3:00 PM, EST

Self-Monitoring is the means by which the Tribe or TDHE fulfills its public trust responsibilities and is empowered to monitor its own projects, collect project data and documentation, keep staff engaged, conduct inspections of HUD-funded projects and improve and evaluate program project performance in accordance with performance objectives and measures. Click Here to register for this session!

Future Topics in the Series Include:

- The APR Process, November 2, 2017@2:00 PM to 3:00 PM, EST
- Audit Review, November 16, 2017@2:00 PM to 3:00 PM, EST
- Demystifying the on-site Remote Performance Monitoring Review, December 7, 2017@2:00 PM to 3:00PM, EST

INDIAN HOUSING BLOCK GRANT

Due to delays in appropriations for FY 2017, the FY 2018 Indian Housing Block Grant Formula Response Form could not be accurately prepared by the June 1st date. Therefore, the FY 2018 Formula Response Form will be published no later than September 6, 2017. The deadline for tribes/TDHEs to respond to the Formula Response Form will be extended to November 6, 2017, which will still provide tribes/TDHEs the customary 60-day response period. Click Here for additional information.

LEECH LAKE UNVEILS A NEW SOLAR ARRAY TO BENEFIT LOW-INCOME FAMILIES

Leech Lake officials and representatives from the Rural Renewable Energy Alliance recently unveiled a new solar array at the Prescott Community Center in Cass Lake, MN. The walls of solar panels at the community center are one of five spread throughout the reservation, with others at the Palace Casino, Leech Lake Tribal College, the Rural Renewable Energy Alliance office in Pine River and a fifth in Jackson Village. The effort began about two years ago with the goal of making energy more accessible to low-income communities. Leech Lake partnered with the Rural Renewable Energy Alliance and received funding from numerous sources. Because of the project’s progress since its inception, it was the recipient of a 2016 Clean Energy Community Award from the Minnesota Department of Commerce. Click Here to read a news article about the project.

FREE TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE FOR ENERGY PLANNING

The U.S. Department of Energy Office of Indian Energy Policy and Programs is offering free, on-request technical assistance to Indian tribes and Alaska Native villages. Tribes can apply annually to receive technical assistance with energy planning; housing, building energy efficiency, and resilience; project development; village power; and policy and regulation. Assistance is provided by the U.S. Department of Energy Office of Indian Energy and its national laboratories, along with other partnering organizations, at no cost. The goal of the technical assistance is to address a specific challenge or fulfill a need that is essential to a current project’s successful implementation. The intended result of this technical assistance is a tangible product or specific deliverable designed to help move a project forward. Click Here for more information.

EMERGING ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES IN NATIVE COMMUNITIES

Tribes and Native villages are demonstrating reinvigorated environmental activism as they face increased pressures on natural resource use. Consequentially, some of the most significant new developments in environmental law are occurring in Indian country. Tribes and Native villages find themselves on the front line of debates over natural resource management and pollution control in a nation undergoing political, economic, and social transition. Emerging issues include adaptation to climate change, asserting treaty rights over natural resources, and balancing pollution reduction against tribal economic interests. The impacts of these issues extend far beyond Indian country, and potentially globally. Join the Environmental Law Institute and its experts for this two-part series to learn more about the current debates surrounding environmental protection in tribal and urban Indian communities. Part I will focus on groundbreaking litigation, including the Dakota Access Pipeline and repercussions for Indian sovereignty, Agua Caliente Band v. Coachella Valley Water District ruling and tribe’s water rights, and determining energy development and tribal jurisdiction in the context of fracking. Click Here for additional information on Part One. Part Two of this series will focus on new challenges posed to tribes and Native villages by a changing climate and strained natural resources, economic obstacles and opportunities for renewable development, climate-induced relocation, Environmental Justice and the Dakota Access Pipeline (DAPL). Click Here for additional information on Part Two.
THE INDIGENOUS FOOD AND AGRICULTURE INITIATIVE, WITH SUPPORT BY THE SHAKOPEE MDEWA-KANTON SIOUX COMMUNITY (SMSC), ANNOUNCES THE OPENING OF UP TO 20 VISTA POSITIONS AVAILABLE AT UP TO 10 TRIBAL GOVERNMENTS AND TRIBAL COMMUNITIES THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES. Fellows will work in teams placed in Native American communities to contribute to and assist in efforts focused on food sovereignty, food systems, and tribal economies that build opportunities in food and agriculture. Space is limited—Click Here to apply! If you have any questions, please email Janie Hipp at jhipp@uark.edu, Director of the Indigenous Food and Agriculture Initiative.

The Section 184 Indian Home Loan Guarantee Program is a home mortgage specifically designed for American Indian and Alaska Native families, Alaska Villages, Tribes, or Tribally Designated Housing Entities. Section 184 loans can be used both on and off native lands for new construction, rehab, the purchase of an existing home, or for refinancing.

Section 184 is synonymous with home ownership in Indian Country. As of March 2016, the Section 184 program has guaranteed over 33,728 loans, which represents over $5.4 billion dollars in guaranteed funds.

Within the Eastern Woodlands region, over 3,938 loans have been made bringing $565 million in private capital directly to Tribal Members. Tribes and TDHEs can also use Section 184 loans to achieve their housing development goals. Some benefits include:

- Low residential mortgage interest rates
- Lower monthly fees than standard PMI
- One time loan guarantee fee (1.5%)
- May utilize up to 15% of loan funds for site infrastructure costs
- Low down payment
- No household income restrictions
- Buy, Rehab, Refi or Build
- Finance up to 20 units at a time.

If you are interested in becoming an approved 184 lender, contact Michael.T.Thorpe@hud.gov.

HUD ONAP Title VI Loan Guarantee Program.
Title VI loans enable Indian Housing Block Grant recipients to leverage up to 5 times their IHBG ‘Need’ funding to finance affordable housing development by pledging future IHBG grant funds as security for repayment of the loan. A private lender provides the financing and HUD provides the guarantee to the lender. To visit the Title VI website, click here. ONAP’s Office of Loan Guarantee has advised that Title VI loans are limited this fiscal year, so the first funded loans will go to applicants whose loan package is the most complete first. For more information on the Section 184 or Title VI Program, contact Kimberly McMorris, at Kimberly.N.McMorris@hud.gov or 312.913.8626.
