GREETINGS FROM THE ADMINISTRATOR

Good News! Finally, a federal budget impasse has been cleared and news outlets report that a budget deal has been reached for the entire FY 2017 Budget cycle. That has some great news for all our IHBG grantees. This means that once the Budget Act is signed, HUD, and specifically ONAP, can begin preparing for the release of IHBG allocations to all grantees, minus any interim funding advances they have already received. This comes at a particularly good time as we are just at the beginning of the construction season for most TDHEs. While ONAP cannot give you a definite date or even an amount yet, because the deal has not formally been voted on by the Congress and signed by the President, we can say that our office will do its best to expedite issuing grant documents to Grantees as soon as we are able.

The Budget deal will make it possible by the ICDBG application time, May 18th, to know how much each office will be getting to disburse in community development grants so keep that application handy. Be sure to submit your application with enough time to have it accepted well before the midnight deadline on May 18, 2017. Director of Grants Management Elton Jones and staff presented a training on how the applications will be scored this year on April 18th. For those that missed that presentation, ONAP has a more generalized video clip available online.

Monitoring. The staff here at Eastern/Woodlands has been quite busy with its monitoring responsibilities and has already visited three grantees in the Region with another scheduled in May. Annually we attempt to do about eight to ten monitoring visits each year with the focus this year being on Tribes and TDHE's who have not been visited before, or not for a long time. The purpose of the monitoring visit is to see if you are following all applicable statutory and regulatory rules as well as to see your accomplishments over the year. Procurement, tenant files, self-monitoring, financial management and policy compliance are just some of the areas the EWONAP monitoring staff looks at routinely. The second item we are always looking to provide is training and technical assistance that can be provided by our Grants management staff. If you or your staff need training in an area such as those listed above or others, Mary White of our staff can coordinate assigning one of ONAP's Training and Technical Assistance providers to come to your location to deliver that training. Topics vary broadly from TDHE Board training to supervisory management to maintenance management. Mary can be reached at 312-913-8762.

Training is very important to keep your existing staff sharp and aware of updated policies and procedures and to train new staff on their responsibilities. EWONAP was pleased to participate in our recently completed Training sessions held in connection with USET and GLIHA's regional meetings in Hollywood, Florida at the Native Learning Center. The turnout was very high and there were many USET Tribes from Maine to Florida. I would like to extend a personal thanks to Georgette Smith, the Executive Director of the NLC for her dedication in both the planning and execution of the two days of training on April 25-26. The speakers covered topics from Tax credits, Admissions and Occupancy, Section 184, to procurement.

Lastly, I would like to stress budget management to make sure there are no cost overruns and unexpected surprises when managing contracts during the building season. Your contractors should be giving you good value for your money, but there is sometimes an incentive to boost profits by substituting a less expensive product for the one you thought you were getting. Make sure your construction manager holds the contractor to the specifications you put in the bid unless it will save you money and still give you the value you needed. Cost overruns can and do occur, but if you are actively aware of the progress of the construction, change orders should not be a surprise or hold up the project. Sometimes they are even for less money. Often the real limitations on building are found out at the bidding stage when every contractor comes in higher than what you projected your project would cost. This will require re-thinking what you can afford. It may require a reduction in square footage or to substitute standard for premium products such as going from a steel roof to a standard shingle roof. That is why it is always prudent to budget a contingency amount just for such potential changes.

Best wishes for the Construction Season!
