The purpose of the Jobs Plus Pilot program is to develop locally-based, job-driven approaches to increase earnings and advance employment outcomes through work readiness, employer linkages, job placement, educational advancement technology skills, and financial literacy for residents of public housing. The place-based Jobs Plus Pilot program addresses poverty among public housing residents by incentivizing and enabling employment through income disregards for working families, and a set of services designed to support work including employer linkages, job placement and counseling, educational advancement and financial counseling. Ideally, these incentives will saturate the target developments, building a culture of work and making working families the norm.

Project Summary:

The Boston Housing Authority (BHA) aims to provide social action to address unemployment and/or underemployment amongst residents of the Charlestown Development. This program will both create a culture of work and provide an equal opportunity for residents to make the fundamental changes needed to increase both their employability and employment. Charlestown contains a total of 1,061 units, with 943 adults between the ages of 18 and 64. Low levels of educational attainment make it difficult to find quality jobs in Boston's innovation economy. The BHA will create Charlestown Works, a program that establishes extensive outreach and retention efforts, builds on an existing and thriving effort to provide Adult Basic Education (ABE) and English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) courses, and integrates one-on-one career development services with financial coaching. The Boston Housing Authority will work to ensure all aspects of Charlestown Works are a success.
