SECOND ROUND
PROMISE ZONES DESIGNATION

PROMISE ZONES COMPETITION
The Obama Administration invites a new round of eligible applicants to apply for a Promise Zones designation. All communities can apply that meet the eligibility criteria, and demonstrate high need, a strong local commitment and a compelling strategy. HUD intends to designate six urban communities and USDA intends to designate at least one rural and at least one tribal community.

No grant funds come with this designation. However, Promise Zones will receive any available preference for certain competitive federal programs and technical assistance.

APPLICATION DEADLINE:
Submit completed applications via www.Max.Gov on November 21, 2014 by 5:00pm EST.

GOALS
The Promise Zones initiative seeks to revitalize high-poverty communities across the country by creating jobs, increasing economic activity, improving educational opportunities, reducing serious and violent crime, leveraging private capital, and assisting local leaders in navigating federal programs.

OVERVIEW
In his 2013 State of the Union address, President Obama announced that he would designate 20 Promise Zones nationwide: urban, rural, and tribal communities where the Administration would partner with local leaders to create jobs, increase economic activity, improve educational opportunities, and reduce violent crime. On January 9, 2014, the first urban, rural, and tribal Promise Zones were announced in a ceremony at the White House. They are located in: San Antonio, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Southeastern Kentucky, and the Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma.

For communities selected, the federal government will partner to help the Promise Zones access the resources and expertise they need. To date, there are twelve federal agencies working in close collaboration to provide resources and expertise to urban, rural, and tribal Promise Zones to expand economic mobility and opportunity in their communities.

BENEFITS
Five AmeriCorps VISTA members will be deployed to each of the Promise Zones to build the capacity of the Promise Zones designees to work with federal agencies, coordinate key stakeholders, and create programs that address the community’s needs.

A federal liaison will also be assigned in each designated community to help leaders and partners navigate the federal resources they need to accelerate efforts to revitalize their communities.

Promise Zone designations will have a term of ten years and may be extended as necessary to capture the full term of availability of the Promise Zone tax incentives if enacted by Congress.

During this term, the specific benefits made available to Promise Zones will vary from year to year, and sometimes more often than annually, due to changes in the agency policies and changes in appropriations and authorizations for relevant programs. All assistance provided to Promise Zones is subject to applicable regulations, statutes, and changes in federal agency policies, appropriations, and authorizations for relevant programs. In 2014, 12 agencies are providing preferential access in 35 programs. A list of the federal agencies along with the programs affiliated with the Promise Zones initiative is available at:
