Removal of National Homeownership Center Reference Guide:

On October 5, 2012, the National Homeownership Center Reference Guide will be removed from the HUD Website. Lenders should refer to outstanding mortgagee letters, handbooks, FAQs and the resource center for policy guidance. While the National Reference Guide was a useful tool, FHA is trying to reduce the number of places that lenders must refer to for answers. This is the first step towards achieving that goal. Content currently found in the National Reference Guide can now be found at the FHA Frequently Asked Questions Site (located at www.hud.gov/answers).
